The Dance Pageant

“WESLEYAN, THE FOUNTAIN OF LIGHT”

Dance Pageant, Friday, October 23, 4:30 o'clock, Rivoli campus
Under the direction of Miss Ernestine Grote, Director of Physical Education, and the staff of the Department

FOREWORD

“The inexpressible pleasure of knowing what we did not know before; the light that springs up, illuminating every object and revealing beauties and harmonies where all was confusion and without interest before—these are some of the rewards of education.

“And shall such sources of delight be shut from our daughters? Shall they be limited to sip bitter waters from the unsatisfying fountains of folly while the pure, exhaustless, gushing fountains of knowledge are closed to their approach?”

—GEORGE FOSTER PIERCE,
First President of The Georgia Female
College, now Wesleyan College.

“Knowledge is no more a fountain seal'd: Drink deep!”

—TENNYSON

Overture—

Fepe Boheme -----from “Scenes Pipporesques” by Massenep

THE FUTURE

FATHER TIME CROSSES BRIDGE OF TIME FUTURE

The Spirit of Wesleyan appears on the Bridge of Learning

DANCES OF THE FUTURE

Dance of the Children of the Unborn Kingdom----- "Waltz", Schubert
Children petition for the preservation of Wesleyan for future generations
(From Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird")

Dance of the Generations ----- "Arabesque", Schumann
The Mother teaches her Child the lessons of life's dance. The Child grows in confidence, leaves the Mother who fears for her safety. The Child returns hurt, receives sympathy and encouragement, begins again the dance of life. Going into the future, the Child urges the Mother to follow, but the latter, longing to go, sends the Child alone and is herself pulled into the past. The Child takes up the responsibility of life, and teaches life's lesson to the third generation.

I Loved Professor Hinton

By Professor J. W. W. Daniel, Head of the Department of History and Economics

James Camillus Hinton, for 34 years an active member of the Wesleyan College faculty, and for the past six years dean emeritus, died on September 27, 1936, in his eightieth year. At a memorial service held at chapel, Professor Daniel gave the following simple and moving account of their friendship.

Thirty years ago last June it was my privilege to meet for the first time Professor James C. Hinton. During the first conversation I ever had with him he seemed to win my full confidence. With further association that confidence grew into a love for the man that became deeper as the years went by.

Professor Hinton was a very retiring and modest man. Yet he was a man of as fine a sense of justice and as high ideals and as fine Christian character as any one whom it has been my privilege to know. He much preferred being right to being prominent. Intimate association with him inspired any one to high thinking and better living.

The spirit of consideration for others and of social obligation that were such a marked characteristic of the man may be suggested by the reason why he never smoked. He said that when he went to college he very much desired to smoke, but that, realizing the sacrifice made by his father to send him off, he could not conscientiously spend money for tobacco. Once he told me that he could not point to any particular time or place in his life when he was converted, but that he knew he was a Christian. All who knew him knew he was a Christian. He was the kind of man I would just like to live with.

The breadth and depth of Professor Hinton's culture and scholarship was very impressive. And he had so much wisdom with his knowledge. Once some of the Wesleyan students were trying to find the little poem beginning "Oh, a dainty plant is the ivy green," and after some fruitless search asked Professor Hinton if he could tell them where it might be found. He said, "I think you will find that in 'Pickwick Papers' ". And they did. One summer he read aloud to Mrs. Hinton the whole of Macaulay's History of England.

The homelife of the Hinton family was ideal. I have never in any other instance known such a trinity of nobility in a family as that of Professor Hinton and his sons, James and Charles. I am sorry the Wesleyan girls of today were not acquainted with Professor Hinton, for I know something of what they have missed in not knowing him personally.

Memorial Scholarship

In memory of Luetta (Smith) Hasty, whose death occurred on July 25, 1935, the class of 1928 is planning a scholarship to be given in 1937-38 to some high school girl to be selected by the class.

The idea of the scholarship originated with Elizabeth (Jenkins) Steele, who has presented it to each member of the class and has had enthusiastic response from her classmates.

Elizabeth thinks it would be appropriate to give the scholarship (of $100 or more, depending upon amounts to be received from the class during the winter and spring of 1937) to a girl who is outstanding in Latin. Luetta, while she was good in every subject, was especially interested in Latin and did her major work in this department, making an "A" average throughout.

Fifty dollars has already been given and additional contributions may be sent to the Alumnae Office at any time.

Editorial Note: Much of the information in these class notes came from the questionnaires which were sent to every alumna last fall to be returned to the Alumnae Office. It was not possible, of course, to print all the material sent, but the editor expects to use more of it from time to time and to keep all of it in the historical and biographical files of the Alumnae Association.

If you failed to return the blank you received, will you not write to the Alumnae Office for a duplicate blank and fill it in for the permanent records? We are anxious to have a biographical record of every alumna.

1867

Molly (Reid) Mills lives in Griffin, Ga., at the Griffin Hotel. She is 87 years old. She lost one son, Charles G. Mills, Jr. She has two grandsons, Charles G. Mills, III, and Blanton Winship Mills.

1868

Mary (Wardlaw) Snead, a Wesleyan graduate of 1868 who is living now at 557 37th St., Oakland, Calif., writes: "I am very much interested in the centennial celebration of my Alma Mater. Please send me literature descriptive of the closing days of the Wesleyan Centennial in October."

1869

Cora (Warren) Beck enjoys reading world news and new aspects of thought. She lives in New York, at 25 Prospect Place. Her children are W. R., with the First National Bank in Atlanta; Andrew M., with Edwards and Broughton, Raleigh, N. C.; John Janes, with D. O. Summers Co., Cleveland, Ohio; and Minna McL., Pratt Institute, New York. She has four grandchildren, W. R., Jr., John Warren, Andrew M., Jr., and Martha.

Annie (Wynn) Adams' adorable little granddaughter, Laleah Adams Sullivan, was in the Wesleyan Centennial Pageant at Commencement dressed in an exact copy of her grandmother's dress of the 1860's. Little Laleah's mother was Laleah (Adams) Sullivan, who was a student of piano at Wesleyan in 1902. After the death of her mother Laleah Sullivan went to live with her aunt, Minnie (Adams) Dorsey of the class of 1905. Mrs. Dorsey was present at the Commencement Pageant to see Laleah in the Procession of the Years.

Annie (Wynn) Adams was 85 years old on October 3. She presented to Wesleyan at Commencement her class ribbon and diploma.

1870

Mary (Miller) Morgan lives in Tampa, Fla. She has three children living: Mrs. Francis Simmons, Mrs. Almeda Davis, Richard Morgan, yachtsman. Carrie, John, Annie, Jamie, and Ben are her children who have died. She has the following grandchildren: Byron, Francis, Dorothy, Marjorie, Mary, Ann, Jack, Dick, and Betty.

1873

Class Secretary: Mrs. Thomas Peters (Kate Ross), 358 Parkway Dr., Atlanta, Ga.

Minnie (Drane) Bullock's interesting reminiscences of her college days contained this bit: "How did we shop? That sounds funny to me. We weren't allowed to go down town, much less to go into a store. The matron went shopping once a week, took orders from the girls, and nothing was exchanged. If she bought you a hat that was more suitable for your mother, you had to wear it. No doubt it was a big undertaking to shop for so many girls."

Mrs. Bullock has been State Historian, State Chairman of Constitution Day, State

Chairman of Programs for the D. A. R., Regent, and now Regent, Treasurer, Parliamentarian for the Oglethorpe Chapter of this organization.

Ida (Frazer) Turrentine of Miami, who has already sent us charming stories of her college days, returned her questionnaire with the questions answered most helpfully. As to her children, they are: Frazer (in the electrical field), Adele, James (druggist), Edyna (assistant manager of a large department store), and Billy (in electrical business). Her grandchildren are Frazer, Jr., assistant instructor of physics in the University of Illinois; Edyna, teaching in Miami; Elbert, studying medicine in the University of Alabama, and Hugh in school in Baton Rouge, La.

The class of '73 lost one of its valued members on September 24, Ella (Gay) Parks of Newnan. Some days later the Alumnae Office received from her daughter-in-law, Rubie (Lovejoy) Parks, A. B. '08, the old Wesleyan commencement badge which was among Mrs. Parks' keepsakes. It has a circle of black crepe in the rosette in memory of a classmate of 1873 who died during her senior year.

Carrie (Turner) Wilson, Sparta, Ga., recalled this incident in her reminiscences: "When Professor Swartz left Wesleyan for his home in Germany, he said (in expressing his thanks for the parting gifts of his pupils), 'The Sophomores buttoned me, the Juniors penned me, and the Seniors caned me!'"

1874

Leila Artope was a student at Wesleyan until the middle of her senior year, when she had to leave on account of illness. She, Minnie (Bass) Burden, and Kate (Oliver) Cooper are all classmates of '74 living in Macon. Several years after leaving Wesleyan, Leila Artope returned to study voice, and was presented with a beautiful medal, which she still wears and cherishes as a reminder of Wesleyan and of Dr. Bass.

Mary (Ford) Walker lives in Canton.

When she entered Wesleyan 66 years ago she wore brown linen aprons and had her hair in two braids. She recalls, as she looks back to her college days, that she wore her first silk dress on Commencement Sunday at Mulberry Street Church.

Mrs. Walker's uncle, Judge Edgar M. Butt, was a trustee of Wesleyan. The classmates she was closest to were: Minnie (Bass) Burden, Leila (Burke) Holmes, Ada (Jackson) Rawson. Mrs. Cobb was her most beloved teacher. Since her graduation she has taught in the Macon Public Schools for many years, and in 1901 married Zebulon Walker, who is now an invalid. "Wesleyan gave me many of the best things I have," she says.

1875

Jeannie Beatrice (Bacon) Baker, of Wewoka, Okla. is the daughter of a Wesleyan alumna, her mother, George (Meriwether) Bacon having graduated in 1843, the third class to graduate at Wesleyan. Jeannie's children are: Lucy Baker Sitton, a teacher of public school music; and George, chief land buyer in T. V. A. at Wilson Dam. She has five grandchildren. Besides keeping house, she teaches expression.

Etta (Clisby) McKay has two sons, William, a Presbyterian minister, and Laurence, poultry and stock raiser. Her two daughters are: Margaret McKay Powell, and Georgia McKay Watt, the latter a missionary to Africa. She has twelve grandchildren, three Powells, five McKays, and four Watts.

Kate (Keaton) Bryan of Ocean Beach, California, received on June 19 her second A. B. degree, "Artium Braillae". At eighty years of age she has mastered the difficult Grade Two of Braille, and is now doing what she calls "making hind-side-before letters by poking holes through a funny metal contraption with a stylus". Here is what her teacher, Catherine J. Morrison of Los Angeles, Calif., says of her:

"It is a real satisfaction and pleasure to put into writing what I said at the June meeting of the San Diego Braille Club concerning your progress in learning Braille. It would be an achievement for anyone half your age to have become the reader that you are of a difficult embossed type, and the space of time in which you did it makes it the more remarkable. I have been teaching this reading for 19 years and I can very con and Harry E., former Representative from Bibb in the Legislature. Her only daughter is Mrs. W. A. Watson, Jr. Her grandchildren are Virginia, Robert and Augustin Watson, Dolores, Gwendolyn, George Jr., and Frances Zera Nottingham, all in school.

Harriott (Freeman) Griswold's family has long been associated with Wesleyan. She writes that ever since before the War Between the States there was some one of the Freeman family connections at Wesleyan, her aunts on both sides, sister, daughter and nieces. Harriott received a medal for "General Excellence" while at Wesleyan. She lives now in Miami, Fla., with a daughter.

Ida (Price) Truitt writes: "Recently I have been thinking of our Wesleyan College women, of what an ornament they are to society—I mean that society which bespeaks culture, refinement, and lofty ideals and which stand out in the making of noble Christian womanhood. Everywhere you meet one, you see the impress of character and intelligence written on her face. I could write a book on the superiority of the old and recent graduates of Wesleyan who have been sent out from her classic halls, who represent the finer and purer things of life. I think of Alice Baxter, Lucy (Cook) Peel, Dolly (Blount) Lamar, Sally May Akin, Addie (Singleton) Branham, Anne (Trippe) Rambo, Lucia (Brock) Rawson, Emma (Davis) Willingham, Verdie (Akin) Erwin, Viola (Wilbanks) Logan, Annie (Bates) Haden, Lucy (Evans) Stephens."

1881

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. W. Daves (Annie Hopkins), Cartersville, Ga.

Virginia Lee (Redding) Voorhees lives in Morristown, N. J. Her two sons are John Redding, mechanical engineer, and Charles Campbell, architect. She has two grandsons, John Dettmar and Thomas Lorton.

Eleanor (Setley) Brodnax has been ill at the home of her daughter in Piqua, Ohio. She has three daughters, Mrs. Georgia A. Flush and Miss Cläre Brodnax, both of Piqua; and Mrs. Ben E. Ostrom of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Corinne (Turnbull) Yarbrough's children are: Theodore Turnbull, working in the post office in Tallahassee; and Mary Simpson, teaching in Miccosukee, Fla. Corinne received a music medal at Wesleyan. She has been president of the Missionary Society for 30 years, corresponding secretary for 50 years, and organist at the church for 40 years.

The Georgia Educational Journal carried an interesting article in the November issue about Josephine (Whithurst) Rozar, Milledgeville. Mrs. Rozar comes to Macon frequently to visit her daughter Nanette, who is dietitian at Wesleyan College, and her son, Dr. A. R. Rozar, President of the Oglethorpe Infirmary. Another son, M. W., is sales manager for the Bibb Manufacturing Company in Chicago. She has one granddaughter, Zoe (Rozar) Moore, who studied home economics at Wesleyan, and one great granddaughter, Zoe Moore.

1882

Class Secretary: Mrs. Mary Anderson (Mary Jones), Talladega, Ala.

Quite the biggest thing that has happened to Gussie (Jones) Winn in years and years is the new grandson, Stewart Douse Winn, Jr., whose mother, Frances (Faust) Winn, received her B. M. at Wesleyan in 1916. The baby was born in April, in England, where his father went last fall representing the Proctor and Gamble Company. The family expect to return to America in December and will visit in Macon before going to their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Daisy (Tison) Branham lives in Brunswick, Ga., and has been for 44 years the wife of a very busy doctor. She writes that she enjoys attending the Wesleyan Club meetings in Brunswick. Her only daughter, Helen Tison Branham, is a graduate nurse from Johns Hopkins and is now superintendent of the Ware County Hospital in Waycross. She graduated in music at Wesleyan in '14 and afterward graduated in Journalism at Columbia University. Daisy also has one son, Harris M. Branham.

1883

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. D. Lamar, Dorothy (Blount), 238 Georgia Ave., Macon, Ga.

Livie (Douglass) Williams is president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Birmingham, Ala., and writes that she loved Wesleyan while she was a student and now. She has one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Robertson.

The Georgia Division of U. D. C. at their meeting in October warmly endorsed Dorothy (Blount) Lamar for president general.

Mrs. A. Belmont Dennis, editor, writes of her:

Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, historian general, who was unanimously endorsed by Georgia division for historian general in 1937, made a brilliant address, outlining the achievements of the U. D. C. Mrs. Lamar will be an outstanding president general. She is past president of Georgia division, is now serving as historian general. Throughout the state Mrs. Lamar is known as a civic, educational, literary and religious leader. She is vice president of the Tallulah Falls Industrial School, and president of the Sidney Lanier Memorial Association, being the author of several literary works on Lanier. She is a member of the Alpha Delta Sorority, a member of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America and of the Georgia Archeological Society, and a former member of the national Y. W. C. A. Council. She was among the first alumnae trustees of Wesleyan College.

1884

Class Secretary: Mattie Rogers, 274 Georgia Ave., Macon, Ga.

Minnie (Harwell) Krauss is a loyal member of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Brunswick, Ga. She has three children, Dorothy (Krauss) Strong, a Wesleyan alumna; Willard, technical engineer in Buffalo, N. Y.; and Lee, agent for the Sinclair Oil Company in Brunswick. She has four grandchildren, Hope, Dan, and Willard Strong, and Caroline Krauss.

Love (Moreland) Leigh, the first life-time contributor to the Wesleyan Loyalty Fund, is the creator of "Loveleigh Novelties", artistic figurines of Southern characters typical of the Old South. She has recognized ability as an artist and sculptress. Among the Wesleyan treasures are some of the figurines, given to her Alma Mater by the creator. Love (Moreland) Leigh was the donor of the first home for superannuated ministers of the North Georgia Methodist Church. She is the mother of Stewart Colley, planter and president of the Colley Loan Co.; and T. N., president of Mill Products Co. Another son, J. W., is deceased. She has five grandchildren.

Although a picture of Mary (Rowland) Chance, together with a group of Waynesboro alumnae, appeared in the August Alumnae magazine, it was impossible to tell from the small picture just how lovely her dress was. It was especially made for the occasion in the style of the 1880's, a heavy blue taffeta with gold tassels. The cascade was of old lace, held by a gold bar. The necklace was a gift on which was suspended her scholarship medal from Waynesboro High School. She wore her old Adelphean pin of 1882, and her fan dated from 1880.

Mary (Rowland) Chance wrote this poem on the Hundredth Birthday of her Alma Mater, but she modestly kept it hidden during Commencement:

Wesleyan

*Symbol of all that's fair and good
And beautiful in womanhood,
Fragrance haunted as yellowed lace
That in its folds retains a trace
Of elusive perfume—are the years made
Sweet by service,—laughter—tears;
Along Life's wondrous golden Lyre
They lie like gems with hearts of fire,
A glittering strand of a Century
Youth's fair future and worthwhile store
Of grace and charm all realized,
She now has reached the guerdon prized,
And in our hearts receives a share
Of homage kept for treasures rare,
A priceless vase, a Wedgwood plate,
A manuscript of ancient date,
These are the things our hearts adore
And age but makes us prize them more.
Fair Wesleyan! Pride of Georgia's heart,
We crown thee Queen of every Art!*

1885

Belle (Harris) Cohen has two children: Marc Cole, salesman, LaSalle and Cadillac Company; Mrs. Norman E. Loewenthal, Santa Monica, Calif. She has one granddaughter, Doris Cole.

Carrie Lee (Branch) Fleming lives in Cordele. She has two sons, Gladstone Fleming, in the automobile business in Sanford, Fla., and Branch Fleming, who has been an invalid since the World War and is now in Arizona.

1886

Class Secretary: M. Kate Neal, 1364 Emory Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

Only two of our old teachers survive with us. Our "Study Hall Lady", Mrs. Lizzie Allen Patillo, Tampa, Fla., still looks young. But she has a birthday only every four years. She writes: "How I would have enjoyed the centennial celebration! I had the proud privilege of introducing Mrs. Catherine (Brewer) Benson, first graduate, to the girls in the study hall at the semi-centennial in 1886."

Anne (Allen) Johnston lives in Franklin, N. C. in the summer and in Tampa, Florida in the winter. Her oldest daughter, Lynn, is married to the superintendent of the Franklin, N. C. schools; her sons, Jack and Frederick, are citrus shippers in Tampa. A daughter, Elizabeth, is a librarian in Tampa; a son, Robert, is a broker in Paducah, Ky.

When Anne Allen married Fred S. Johnston and went to Franklin, N. C. to live, she asked Lynn Branham to be one of her first guests in her new home. Through the years the invitation has been renewed, but it took Lynn fifty years to get there. In July, 1936, Anne was having a month's family reunion. All her children, grandchildren, and in-laws from North Carolina, Florida, and Kentucky were foregathered. Including cooks, maids, and chauffeurs there were twenty souls when Lynn arrived. Lynn says Anne has a perfect right to be proud of her fine family.

Annie (Bates) Haden, 1888, was the gracious hostess recently at her lovely home for Group 1 of the Atlanta Alumnae Club. Mamie (Haygood) Ardis of Downey, California, and Dr. G. R. Glenn were honor guests at this interesting occasion. Dr. Glenn, 88 years old on December 5, resides with his daughter, Nell, at 1080 Reeder Circle, Atlanta. This dear teacher responded with radiant smiles and unwearied spirit to the loving greetings from these friends. Kate (Ross) Peters, 1873, was present and called her class roll from memory without missing one.

At our Al Fresco luncheon at the conservatory at Commencement we had at our table as guests: Carrie (Branch) Fleming, 1885; Mattie (Newsome) Hines, 1887; Cornelia (Smith) Holtzclaw, 1884; and Mattie Glenn (Tigner) Boddie, 1883.

Lynn Branham is well known as one who rarely likes to leave her home town of Oxford, Ga., but this summer she had wanderlust. After a tour in the Blue Ridge mountains she went to Corra Harris' home "In the Valley" and to her own mother's (Elizabeth Flournoy Branham, 1840) ancestral home of Eatonton. Then there was a tour of the coast towns of Georgia. While she was in Bolton with her sister, Mattie (Branham) Moore, 1875, Annie (Hyer) Coleman and Kate Neal accepted her annual "spend-the-day" invitation. Then we heard of Lynn's visit to Stella (Duncan) Cater in Perry. Lynn says: "Stella's beauty and sweetness have been enhanced through the years. Her graying hair, soft brown eyes, and gentle graciousness seem just the type to adorn the lovely old colonial home where "Star" and Dr. Cater keep open house for children, grandchildren and friends the whole year round.

Lillian Bremer has entirely recovered from an appendicitis operation. She visited her cousin, Mrs. Calhoun, in Decatur, in June. Later she spent many weeks in Mississippi with her interesting ninety-year-old aunt. Lillian is happy in her art work at Queens-Chicora College, N. C.

Laura (Brown) Miller was one of our finest, prettiest and smartest girls. She had not seen Wesleyan and her classmates since Graduation Day. She was received with open arms. She said "she knew that she was an old lady, but she felt that we others ought to look just as we did when she saw us last." Living in a great metropolis, Laura sees many fine college events, but she says that nothing she ever witnessed was so lovely as her Alma Mater's Centennial Pageant.

Present for the Wesleyan Centennial celebration at commencement were Laura (Brown) Miller, New York, N. Y.; Lynn Branham, Oxford, Ga.; Annie (Hyer) Coleman, Bobbie (Graham) Warner, and Kate Neal, Atlanta, Ga.; Ada (Murphey) Pound, Athens, Ga.; Mary (Holtzclaw) Robeson, Marietta, Ga.; and Blanche (Hall) Neel, Minnie Fay Rice, Mattie (O'Daniel) Smith, Emma O. Smith, Minnie (Morgan) Bailey, Macon, Ga.

Jimmie (Finch) Boone, Plant City, Fla., visited her brother in Decatur in August. To some of her old classmates she talked happily of her fine surgeon son, Dr. Wood of Mount Dora, Florida, and his two lovely married daughters, but there was a special lilt in her voice as she spoke of her two great grandchildren.

Lizzie (Leonard) Hightower likes the North Carolina mountains. She has made pleasant visits to Asheville, Highlands, and Hendersonville, N. C. Later, she joined her cousin, Minnie (Drane) Bullock, 1873, of Columbus at Daytona Beach, Fla.

From her home in Orlando, Florida, April 22, 1936, our dear Alice (Miller) Phillips went to her Eternal Home.

Rosalie (Ridenhour) Brown passed safely through the Cordele cyclone, but we are sorry to know that she has not been well for nearly a year.

Annie Lou (Sasnett) Crum of the class of '86 passed away after a brief illness on December 17, 1935. She had served for many years as matron at Oglethorpe University, where she was known to hundreds of students as "Mother Crum". Her father was Dr. William J. Sasnett, distinguished in his day as an educator and writer. He was professor at Emory College and president of LaGrange College. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was president of Auburn Tech, Alabama. The children of Annie Lou Sasnett and Dr. William J. Crum of Jackson, Ga., are: B. S. and William J. Crum of Atlanta, Mrs. H. T. Wiedeman of Atlanta and Mrs. George Mingledorf of Douglas, Ga.

Last June in celebration of her fiftieth year as teacher in the Macon schools, Emma O. Smith was given a wonderful appreciation party. When giving gracious thanks for a lovely silver bowl with other tributes, Emma said: "If I keep on feeling as well as I do now, I can round out a hundred years of teaching."

Ida (Wilbourne) Ray writes that Washington, D. C. is a most interesting place to live. She has nice rooming apartments at 1602 16th St. N. W., Washington, and invites the girls to come to see her.

Ada (Murphey) Pound was in Atlanta recently and answering two of her classmates' questionnaire: "How many children have you, Ada?" said, "Seven children and twelve grandchildren." We said, "Ada, that's hard to believe for you look very much as you did when you gave the eulogy over our Natural Philosophy Books as we buried them on the campus back of old Wesleyan." We hear these "seven children and twelve grandchildren" have fine records for culture and scholarship. Of course! Wasn't Ada our Honor Girl?

ful autumn scenery. Minnie will go later to Washington, D. C. to be with her daughter, Amelia, who is in residence there.

One of the lovely sights of the Centennial Alumnae Day was Mary (Holtzclaw) Robeson with her daughters, Mary (Robeson) Boardman, 1914, and Harriet (Robeson) Lovett, 1916. Mary said she felt as if she belonged to three school periods as she went through the happy throng receiving greetings from her daughters' classmates as well as her own.

All are rejoicing that the operation on Blanche (Hall) Neel's eyes was wonderfully successful, and that she is now enjoying reading and writing again.

The reunions of the class of 1886 could never be what they are without the loyal courtesies of our Macon "wonderful four", Blanche (Hall) Neel, Mattie (O'Daniel) Smith, Minnie Fay Rice, and Emma O. Smith.

Then there were letters, telegrams, and messages from those who were "home bound". Emy (Norris) Hall, Annie May (Mallery) Andrews, Chloe (Smith) Hutchinsin, Annie Belle (Cox) Lanier and others.

Lizzie (Wiley) Davids wrote: "I am wishing for Wesleyan many centenaries, and that she shall both stand and go forward as long as the good earth holds."

The wonderful Centennial Celebration will ever hold a kaleidoscope of cherished memories for her loyal daughters.

"Sun and shadow,
Day by Day—
Time flies on
But memories stay."

Kate Neal, Class Secretary.

In answer to the questionnaire sent out by the Alumnae Office last year, Florence Irene Leonard wrote a most interesting account of her college days which will be invaluable for the historical files of the college. This came from Geneva, Switzerland, where she is in evangelistic work. The editor of the Alumnae magazine is planning a series of articles about Wesleyan faculty members of other days using the reminiscences of alumnae.

Blanche (Hall) Neel's children are: Roland, manager of Jos. N. Neel Co. Clothing Store in Macon; Leonora (Neel) Krenson, Blanche (Neel) Earnest, and Gladys (Neel)

Dickey, all Wesleyan alumnae. One son, J. N. Neel, Jr., was killed in action in the World War.

Emmie (Norris) Hall lives in Milledgeville. Her children are: Alice, for nine years a teacher in Miami, Fla., John, and Emily Hall Reynolds, keeping house in Atlanta. Emmie has completed a correspondence course in the short story and has had published one story and one poem. She has also won a prize on one story.

1887

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. A. Douglass (Jennie Martin), Lake Mary, Fla.

Anna (Merritt) Munro has four children: Paul M. Munro, superintendent of the Selma, Ala. schools, president of the Alabama Educational Association and vice-president of the National Educational Association; Martha Munro Ingram, Marian (Munro) Merritt (both Wesleyan alumnae); and Ida Munro, assistant librarian at Emory University.

Several interesting additions to the collection of Souvenirs of Old Wesleyan Days came from Pearl (Banks) Watkins of Durham, N. C. in October, her graduation composition on "Do Colleges Educate Wisely?", her commencement badge, a program of the third section of Commencement, and a charming picture of the class of 1887 on the Wesleyan steps, looking very full of dignity in their tightly buttoned bodices and long skirts.

1888

Class Secretaries: Mrs. W. T. Stone (Ida Lowrey), Blakely, Ga.; Mrs. Belle S. Wooten (Belle Stewart), Gray, Ga.

Of course I'll always regret missing the Centennial Commencement, and wish that every member of Class 1888 had been present. I have read and re-read the pageant program so kindly sent me, and every reading deepens my regret.

I don't know that I have a full list of our members who were present, but I understand that Annie (Bates) Haden, Belle (Stewart) Wooten, Irene Hendric, Clara (Boynton) Cole, May (Pickens) Simons, Nan (Carmichael) Beeland, Louise (Morse) Riddle, and Margaret (Smith) Ferrell were there. Belle (Stewart) Wooten may be able to add to this list. Emmie (Crittenden) Wooten wrote that business cares prevented her attendance; the illness of her husband kept Sallie (Lowrey) Wolfe at home, and Jessie Hopkins was attending the Library Convention in Richmond, after which she spent the month of May enjoying the gayeties of New York. All who attended, however, were loud in their praises of the program, and one wrote that she "enjoyed every minute of it from the banquet on Friday evening to the end of the sermon on Sunday," when she left for home.

We had looked forward to having Mamie (Haygood) Ardis and her husband, Judge J. L. Ardis, at this Commencement, but shortly after it the sad news came of his sudden death. The Class extends heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved ones. Mamie is now with relatives in Atlanta, and last Sunday attended the christening of her father's great-grandchild, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Trotti of Decatur, in the Old Church at Oxford, which holds so many tender memories of her father, Bishop Haygood.

Our one and only male classmate, Mr. Charles D. Beeland, Jr., was recently happily married to Miss Elizabeth Ellis Hyatt, at the Park Street Methodist church in Atlanta, and the Class sends sincere wishes for the happiness of himself and his bride.

Mr. Beeland, whom we all know as "the man who flew with Lindbergh," made the movie films of our Commencement Pageant which will be released late in October. All but the actual cost of the films he gave to Wesleyan as a tribute to his mother, a member of this class, and her Alumnae Group in Atlanta is to have credit for the nine hundred and fifty dollars thus donated, and our class, I know, gives three cheers for Mr. Charles Beeland!

The sympathy of the Class will be with Sallie (Lowrey) Wolfe in the death of her husband, Mr. F. A. Wolfe, North S. C., which sad event occurred October 1st.

Caroline Bonner Speer has changed her address from Atlanta to Americus, Ga., where she is very happily connected with the Americus Book Company. She states that she witnessed the Wesleyan Pageant, and pronounced it "a lovely thing."

A letter from Ermine (Malone) Branham, whose present address is Ellenton, S. C. regrets that the state of her health forbade attendance at Commencement, but thinks that all who were present should consider themselves "most fortunate to have witnessed the wonderful pageant."

The address of Annie Lou (DeJarnette) O'Neil, has been changed from Dallas to San Antonio, Texas.

Ibbie (Prince) Wilburn is now located at 666 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. where she lives with her daughter and sisters.

Kate Ware, on whom I have wasted reams of stationery, but who to date has ignored all my importunities to "speak up" has at last been found at Americus, Ga. (where she may have been all this time when I was searching for her). Her husband was, before his death, Georgia's Commissioner of Agriculture. She has a grandson at Emory University, and believe it or not, she is said to look younger than she did in 1888! Caroline Speer has been of great assistance to me in my "sleuthing operations!"

Ida (Lowrey) Stone,

Class Secretary.

Wesleyan was delighted to have as visitors in October, Mamie (Haygood) Ardis of Downey, California and her cousin Clara (Boynton) Cole of Atlanta. It was Mamie Haygood's father, Bishop Atticus G. Haygood, who suggested to George I. Seney long ago that the money Mr. Seney proposed to give to a Southern School for girls should come to Wesleyan, and thus secured for Wesleyan its first large benefaction.

1889

Class Secretary: Mrs. Geo. Watson (Annie Lou Laney), 319 Duncan Ave., Macon, Ga.

Mamie (Hawkins) Jones lives in Tampa, Fla., where she has served as president of the Tampa Woman's Club and Vice Regent of the D.A.R.

Annie Lou (Laney) Watson has eight children, five of them working in Macon. One is wife of a missionary to Brazil, one married and living in Denver, Colo., another in North Platte, Nebraska.

Through Annie Lou (Laney) Watson, Mrs. Emily Allen Siler, for years a beloved teacher at Wesleyan, gave to the college at Commencement a gavel made from the wood of the old mock orange tree that used to grow on the Wesleyan campus. The gavel was used by Annie (Bates) Haden, president, at the Commencement meeting of alumnae. Mrs. Siler, although she did not attend Wesleyan as a student, has been closely associated with the college. She was given an honorary degree during her first year of teaching, 1889. Her sister, Sarah Margaret (Allen) Babcock, was in the class of 1868. A younger sister, Ann (Allen) Johnson graduated in 1886. Another sister, Lizbeth, was a teacher at Wesleyan. Mrs. Siler makes her home in Junaluska, N. C.

1890

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. P. Coleman (Ida Mangham), Massee Apts., Macon, Ga.

Lila May Chapman is one of six Birmingham women who have been accorded national recognition by the Society of Arts and Sciences. The Society, in its search for those doing distinguished work in the educational fields of painting and music outside of the metropolitan center has selected Miss Chapman as outstanding in her community. She has brought many splendid exhibitions to Birmingham.

Susie (Evans) Hartsfield, West Palm Beach, Fla., has four sons, two of them Methodist ministers one in Florida and one in North Carolina. She has eight grandchildren, the youngest not two years old, are twin girls, "beautiful babies with golden curly hair and large blue eyes", named Millie Beth and Julie Sue.

Lillian (McDonell) McKay has three sons, James, Allen, and Richard, all in business in Tampa, and one granddaughter, Lillian McKay, who has been studying in Bloomfield, N. J.

Nimqui (Williams) Smith has been organist or pianist in the Methodist Church in Hartwell ever since her graduation from Wesleyan. She has one daughter, Nell Smith Nichols, teaching school.

1891

Class Secretary: Mrs. Walter Grace, Sr. (Ruby Jones), 631 Forsyth St., Macon, Ga.

Adela (Barksdale) Ware is teaching in Florida. She has two daughters, Ruth, teaching in West Palm Beach, and Adela Ware McDaniel, White Plains, N. Y. She also has one grandchild, an "adorable baby girl".

Mamie (Wood) Williams has three children, Louise Williams Kay Matthews, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Ray Williams, an attorney of Atlanta; Florimel (Williams) Herndon, Durham, N. C.

1892

Class Secretary: Mary Bond Smith, Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Mary and Birdie Blackshear recently presented a tablet to Christ Episcopal Church in Macon in memory of their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Ambrose Baber, pioneer citizens of Macon.

Fannie Ross (Freeman) Taylor lives in Miami, Fla. Two of her poems, "Lines on My Birthday" and "Windblown" appeared in the American Voices Poetry Anthology for 1935. She has written the history of her county's part in the Seminole War for the chamber of commerce and the schools. She has served as president of the R. E. Lee Chapter of the U. D. C., in Dade City, Fla., president of the American Legion Auxiliary in Dade City and in Ocala, Regent of the D. A. R. in Ocala, Fla.

Maude Hill has studied at the Art Students' League in New York since her graduation from Wesleyan. She has had delightful trips abroad the past two summers, going to England last year, and this summer to Italy and the continent where she revelled in the art and history of the old world.

Claudia Little has been teaching in Waycross, Ga., for the past 21 years.

Cora (Parramore) Ashley has served as state officer of the U. D. C., and as president of the chapter in her home, Madison, Fla., for many years.

Daisy Peddy, who is teaching piano in Newnan, Ga., has studied since her graduation at Wesleyan at Chicago, Harvard University and Georgia Normal School summer sessions.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Pinkeye (Sykes) Houston in the death of her mother Mrs. India Sykes in September. She was 83 years old and died at Pinkeye's home. The newspaper account spoke of her as a social leader and prominent in church work; member of an old and prominent Mississippi family, and mother of Judge E. O. Sykes, member of the Federal Communications Commission.

Fannie Belle (Vinson) Vinson has four sons, Dr. Frank Vinson, practicing medicine in Ft. Valley, Ga.; W. E. Vinson, Jr., farming near Byron, Ga.; Dr. T. O. Vinson, interne at the Macon Hospital; and E. R. Vinson, lawyer, government inspector in Dallas, Texas.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. O. Jones (Loula Evans) Newnan, Ga.

Mary Rix (Bryan) Lawrence of Baxley entered her grandbaby, Elizabeth Lawrence Brobston ("Baby Bess") for the class of 1954 at Wesleyan. "Baby Bess" was born on February 5, 1936, the birthday of Mrs. Lawrence's father. Mrs. Lawrence gave to Wesleyan at commencement the sheets, towels, blankets, and pillow cases which she brought for the reunion to swell the "family" linen supply for future reunions. Since her return to her home in Baxley she wrote: "We old girls had the time of our lives at commencement. I never hope to see anything more beautiful than the Pageant! We cannot express in words the deep feelings we had. I cried for pure joy."

Fannie (Coarsey) Pennington's daughter, Mrs. Clarence C. Nielsen of 83 N. 100th St., Miami, Fla., writes: "I should like to get in touch with some of mother's school-mates at Wesleyan and see if they happen to have any pictures taken while she was in school. My mother died May 26, 1935".

Mamie Gramling gave the valedictory address and received her bachelor of science degree in education with honors at the Florida Southern College summer school commencement in August. Since her graduation from Wesleyan she has been a successful teacher in the Tampa school system, having been principal of the W. B. Henderson elementary school there for thirty-five years.

Linda (McKinney) Anderson's husband, W. D. Anderson, resigned in March as president of the Bibb Manufacturing company, and was succeeded by his son William D. Anderson, Jr.

Martha (Morehouse) Bowen's husband is in business which keeps him in Chicago for a time, but they expect to return to Georgia later. She has been active in church and club work since she was at Wesleyan. They have one son, Walker Bowen, who is manager of a hotel in Chicago.

Eloise (Nicholson) McIntosh lives in Tallahassee, Fla., and has three children, Jennie (married and living in Wilmington, Delaware), Frederick (secretary of a paper company in Memphis, Tenn.), and Malcolm (clerk in the comptroller's office in Tallahassee.)

Class Secretary: Mrs. Lucy K. Johnson (Lucy Keen), 15 Woodbine Rd., Irvington, N. Y.

Bettie Lou (Cary) Bloodworth's children are: Bettie Lou, a designer in Miami, Fla.; C. Frank, Jr., in vegetable produce business and working in most states from Texas to New York; Elizabeth, who is Mrs. J. B. Gardner, Jr., and the mother of Jewel Elizabeth Gardner, not yet two years old.

Julia McIntosh Sparks edits "Our Chart", a monthly paper for the Georgia Baptist Hospital in Atlanta. She recently sent a copy to the Alumnae office. It is most attractive in make-up, with articles about the hospital's work, pictures, and short items. A letter which accompanied it said: "I wish that I might be at Wesleyan for Commencement, but my mother continues an invalid and I cannot leave her."

1895

Class Secretary: Mrs. Harry Ainsworth (Marion Hayes), Thomasville, Ga.

Mary (Jarvis) Davis lives in Ellensburg, Washington. Greetings for the Centennial Year came from her. She says: "I recently joined the branch of the American Association of University Women here. I was thrilled when I applied for membership to know that Wesleyan alumnae were on the approved list."

May (Murphy) Johnson lives in Waycross. She has one son, Herschel Lamar Johnson, with the Gulf Refining Company. A daughter, Katharine Johnson Morton, died August 28, 1930, leaving a little son, Fred, now nine years old.

Florrie Jean (Richards) Lightfoot's son, Robert Mitchell Lightfoot, Jr., was married to Miss Evelyn Lyons, of Concord, New Hampshire this year. Robert attended Wake Forest College, where he held a scholarship, for two years. He graduated from North Carolina State College, and went on the Phelps-Stokes fellowship to the University of Virginia for two years, receiving the master's degree and very nearly completing work for the doctorate. His sister, Jean Lightfoot, was a bridesmaid in the wedding.

1896

Zada (Dozier) Walker has been County Superintendent of schools in Roberta, Ga., since December, 1923. She is dean of women in this position in the state, in point of service. She has one son, Dozier K. Walker, assistant manager of J. C. Penny Co., in Harrisonburg, Virginia, and one little granddaughter, Sara Katherine, age 4.

Rosa Valeria (Elder) Smith lives in Macon with her daughter, Eugenia (Smith) Davis and her husband and a little grandson, Dan Davis, Jr.

Nellie Reynolds is listed as a composer of music in the Congressional Library in Washington. She has composed several songs, one being sung at the Federation of Women's Clubs in Savannah, and another, the Twenty-third Psalm set to music, being pronounced by a Wesleyan professor of music as fine. She has also written several short pieces for the violin.

Mittie (Smith) Clyatt's first grandson was a year old July 6 this year. His name is Marshall Lee Moore. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Moore of Umatilla, Fla.

Mittie (Smith) Clyatt, Bartow, Fla., has two daughters, Mrs. Ellis Moore and Mrs. J. L. Pickard, and two grandchildren, Barbara Elaine Pickard, four years old, and Marshall Lee Moore, a year old.

1897

Class Secretary: Mrs. S. T. Coleman (Edith Stetson), 317 College St., Macon, Ga.

Sadie (Almand) Tucker of Lathonia attended the fall celebration of the Centennial and visited her brother, Joe Almand of the Wesleyan faculty.

Sympathy is extended to Vera (Clinton) McBirney in the death of her fifteen-year-old son, Simmons, in July after a month's serious illness. He had been an invalid the greater part of his life, and was Vera's constant companion. There are three other children, J. D. McBirney of Tulsa, Dorothy McBirney, and Martha McBirney Bradley. Martha's little son has brought much joy into the home.

Jamie (Frederick) McKenzie made the chief address to the Confederate Veterans at their annual meeting in Augusta recently, and of course covered herself and '97 with glory.

Vera (Griffin) Collier's daughter, Virginia, married in the spring and remembered some of her mother's Georgia friends with invitations. She wrote afterwards "Mother is in the hospital now for a slight operation but aside from that, she is as young as ever."

Irene (Jewett) Bridges lives in Macon. She has six children, Katie (Bridges) Hines, Ex '26, of Americus; Louise Bridgers, A.B. '30, in religious education work with the Methodist church; Kitty Bridges; James, Claude and Joseph, all working in Macon.

Lewis B. Rumph, son of the late Alice (Myers) Rumph of Marshallville, received two scholarships at Georgia Tech this year. He made one of the highest averages ever made at Tech and graduated cum laude. Her daughter Mary's recent marriage to Mr. S. G. McGehee brings her to Macon to make her home.

All of her classmates and numerous friends are delighted to know of Edith (Stetson) Coleman's improvement after a long illness. In addition to her many activities, she worked with all her energy and strength for the Wesleyan Centennial throughout the year. Her vision and efforts added greatly to the national interest awakened and to each event upon the program. As National Vice-President in charge of the Historical Collection she assembled many valuable relics and documents for the College's permanent possession, in addition to the interesting alumnae exhibit in the Library during Commencement. The period and character dolls, the replicas of the Original Building and the Centennial edition of the Wesleyan Cook Book were new features that she added to the old things collected. She spent the summer at St. Simons suffering from sciatica and though she has been able to return to her home in Macon for short visits during the fall, she has returned to regain her strength in the out-door life that she can lead there. She is missed upon every occasion at Wesleyan and her friends are looking forward to January when she plans to renew her activities.

Sorrow has come to many of our members. To each of them we extend the deep sympathy of their class-mates: to Margaret (Weaver) Smith of Anniston, Alabama, in the loss of her brother, Mr. W. H. M. Weaver of Macon; to (Williams) Kern of Washington and to Ella Mae Williams, '96, of Macon in the loss of their brother, Horton, of the Williams Jewelry Company.

'97 sent flowers to the funeral of Prof. J. C. Hinton.

1898

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. G. Stephens (Lucy Evans), 615 Linwood Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Lucy (Evans) Stephens is slowly recovering from an automobile accident in August when she sustained a broken collar-bone. For the first time she missed entering her daughter in Wesleyan when Ida, the last and the youngest of the three girls enrolled as a freshman in September. But Dr. Stephens came in her place, and both of them attended the centennial convocation in October. Their only son, Robert, Junior, has returned from his year's study abroad and is now teaching at the University and working on his Master's degree there.

Marie (Harris) Parker lives in Macon. Her daughter, Azile, received the Wesleyan Conservatory scholarship last year, given by the Macon Alumnae Club.

Petrona (Humber) Hean was in Eaton last spring with her father who was very ill. She sent for the Wesleyan Historical Exhibit a lovely old fan which belonged to her mother. Petrona's home is in Harrisburg, Penn. She has one child, Elizabeth, age 10.

Martha (King) Johnson, Waycross, Ga., has one son, Raymond Lovejoy, Jr., age 11. Martha is vice-president of the P.-T. A. in Waycross, is interested in the Society of Colonial Dames, and in the Auxiliary of the Ware County Medical Society.

Rita (Lanier) Fussell and her family enjoyed a motor trip to Georgia from their home in Alabama during the summer.

Jennie Loyall visited France, England, and Italy during her summer abroad.

We extend sympathy to Ella Bess (McMichael) Schmeisser in the loss of her sister, Merrill, A. B. '26. Ella Bess with her husband and two children spent the summer at her home "Chestnut Lodge" at Blowing Rock, N. C. Here she especially missed Merrill, who was interested in the building of the lodge and spent her summers there, beloved by the whole family.

Reba (Moore) Standifer entered her second daughter, Marjorie, in the freshman class this fall and came to the October celebration in which her daughter, Sadie, was one of the leading dancers.

"Ves and Vivian" are at Wesleyan again. Ves Parker and her niece, who is Vivian Lee's daughter, Vivian Parker, came up from Arcadia, Fla., in September for Vivian to study at the Conservatory. She is taking piano from Mr. Maerz and the regular course leading to graduation. She is already making a good record there. Vivian is the youngest of the two sisters that Ves had reared. June, the older, is married and lives in Charlotte, N. C. Ves closed their home in Florida temporarily and is keeping their apartment on College Street not far from the old college.

1912 is very proud of Alleen (Poer) Hinton, who served as General Chairman of the Wesleyan Centennial and who gave herself untiringly to every detail of the celebrations Commencement and in the fall. Much of the success of both occasions was due to the high standards that she set for this celebration of the centenary of women's education and to the cooperation that she won because of her own interest and sacrificial expenditure of time and strength in the face of seemingly unsurmountable obstacles, illness and sorrow. Wesleyan is indebted to her efficient leadership in this epochal period.

Lucile (Ray) Lawton and her husband visited Wesleyan in September. Walter, Jr. is doing graduate work at Northwestern where he won a fellowship, and Ben is continuing his studies at Washington and Lee. With the two boys away, Lucile spends much of her time travelling with Walter wherever his business takes him, and as usual enjoys immensely every town and person met.

Stella (Roberts) Pendleton's many friends are welcoming her and her family back to Macon after a year spent in Jacksonville.

Walter (Tilley) Pierce was in Macon as a delegate to the Democratic Convention in October. She has developed a talent for art which she is studying.
